HANGS HERSELF WITH A TOWEL

Jersey City Woman, Long in Bad Health, Ends Life in Her Lome

Her belief that her continued ill health made her a burden to her hushand and an object of pity to her friends is believed to be the cause that drove Mrs. Grace Daniels, of No. 81 Clerk street, Jersey City, to er her life to-day.

Mrs. Daniels bade her husband an affectionate good-by as he started for his work in Manhattan, where he is a clerk in a wholesale woollen house, and then summoned her father, John Dohn, who lived at the Danleis home, to breaklah. Mr. Dohn, a few minutes later, attempted to enter the bathroom. Something was jammed against the door on the inside, and after pushing it open by force he was horrified to find the body of his daughter hanging from the transom by a towel which she had twisted into a halter.

Calling for help from the neighbors Mr. Dohn cut the towel with his pocket knife and tried to restore his daughter to consciousness, while waiting for a doctor. All efforts to save the young woman's life failed, and although she was still breaking when she was found, she died a few minutes later. No note was found with would throw light on her motive, and Mr. Dohn said he could only ascribe her act to bad health. work in Manhattan, where he is a clerk
